

Marshall Fire Support Group

This group is intended to offer space for victims of the Marshall Fire to share in their personal experiences, process their loss with the support of the group and a licensed mental health professional, provide emotional support for one another, gain a sense of community, access to resources, and empathetic understanding to encourage a foundation toward healing and growth individually and as a community.

In-person and Zoom meetings could start the second week of January depending on members, group size, and weekly timing. Please reach out to Jenn at the contact information below about beginning the process to join one of the support groups.
